

'Unstoppable' Carter adds Pennsylvania

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Jimmy Carter has combined his big victory in Pennsylvania's Democratic presidential preference primary with an unexpected lead in the crucial battle for the state's national convention delegates.

The former Georgia governor, boasting that "we're now No. 1," had won or was leading for 61 of the state's 178 delegates as the vote count continued today. Some results were not expected until Friday.

President Ford, unopposed in Pennsylvania and apparently assured of all 103 Republican delegates, was in Texas preparing for the important May 1 primary there.

Ford emphasized law and order in a speech prepared for a meeting in Tyler of three law groups. He decried "simple solutions to complex problems" and said he is determined to keep Americans safe from crime at home and from war and aggression abroad.

The President apparently sought to stake out an issue of his own against challenges to his defense policy from former California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

But he wound up with a pledge to "continue to insure that the United States of America is unsurpassed in military capability" — a pledge he seems compelled to make everywhere because of Reagan's persistent campaigning on that issue.

Correctly predicting that the people wouldn't listen to the party bosses and labor leaders who tried to stop him in Pennsylvania Tuesday, Carter demolished his chief foes — Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington and Arizona Rep. Morris K. Udall — in the nonbinding popularity contest. Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace was a distant fourth.

But what Carter hadn't predicted, while Jackson had, was victory in the delegate contest — and this apparent upset left Jackson and Udall disappointed.

"This slows down our course to the White House," Jackson said.

"I wouldn't be honest if I didn't tell you I'm a little bit disappointed," Udall said. "But I'm not dismayed and I'm not discouraged."

In the delegate fight, with 72 per cent of the 9,638 precincts reported, Carter led for 61, Udall 24, Jackson 17, Gov. Milton J. Shapp of Pennsylvania 17, Wallace 3, and uncommitted 44.

"We're going to win, win on the first ballot," Carter said, claiming his Pennsylvania triumph had hushed his delegate total over 400 and that he would have more than 1,000 by the time of the last primary June 8.

A lot of uncommitted delegates are now ready to move toward me," Carter said.

It takes 1,505 delegates for nomination at the Democratic National Convention in New York City in July.

In the preference balloting, more popularly known as "the beauty contest," Carter captured 37 per cent of the votes, compared with 25 per cent for Jackson, 19 for Udall and 11 for Wallace.

With 93 per cent of the vote counted these were the figures: Carter 471,344 or 37 per cent Jackson 316,542 or 25 per cent Udall 241,344 or 19 per cent Wallace 143,443 or 11 per cent.

Shapp, who quit the presidential race in March after dismal primary showings, 33,903 or 3 per cent.

Anti-abortion candidate Ellen McCormack 37,486 or 3 per cent.

Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana 16,471 or 1 per cent.

Former Oklahoma Sen. Fred Harris 13,204 or 1 per cent.

Ford said Carter's victory apparently assures the former Georgia governor of the nomination.

"I don't see how the Democratic smoke-filled rooms in New York can take the nomination away from him," Ford said from Texas.

Pennsylvania voters also nominated party candidates for the U.S. Senate seat of retiring Republican Hugh Scott, the minority leader.

Philadelphia Congressman

William Green was a landslide winner on the Democratic side.

Pittsburgh Rep. H. John Heinz 3rd was locked in a tight battle with Philadelphia Dist. Atty. Arlen Specter for the GOP bid.

Carter told jubilant followers he had wiped out every possible obstacle with his latest victory, the seventh in nine primaries, obviously including a man who wasn't on the ballot, Minnesota Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey.

Four years ago, Humphrey won the state just as convincingly as Carter, and he was still the choice of most labor leaders who had turned to Jackson as a last hope in stopping the frontrunning Georgian.

The disappointed Jackson, who had come here three weeks ago flush on a primary triumph in New York boasting he was the only Democrat able to win a big industrial state, said he was going to change his campaigning style.

"I think it will be a dramatic change," Jackson said, without revealing particulars, "a change new to American politics, a change that eliminates a lot of gimmickry, handshaking and press-the-flesh."

Udall, determined to stay in the presidential fight to the end, said the Pennsylvania primary was "one battle in a very long war."

2 shot to death near Greenville

GREENVILLE, Mo. (AP) — Two persons were apparently shot to death early today near this Southeast Missouri community, the Missouri Highway Patrol said.

Troopers said a bartender was shot several times at his bar just north of the Greenville city limits. Hours later, the body of a man was found three miles north of the bar along U.S. 67.

One theory which police were exploring was that the second victim may have witnessed the shooting of the bartender and was abducted, shot and thrown from a vehicle, troopers said.

No further details were immediately available.

Greenville is in Wayne County about 30 miles north of Poplar Bluff.

Amendment bill labeled 'Cop out'

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A Senate bill to amend the campaign reform law, passed by public initiative in 1974, would be a "cop out" to the people, Rep. Vic Downing charged Tuesday.

The Bragg City Democrat contended the Senate sponsored bill would "water down" the law too severely. He announced he would submit a substitute on the House floor when the bill came up for discussion.

There are still more than a dozen bills pending on the House calendar, before the bill will be discussed.

Downing charged the Senate bill would be a "cop out by certain elected politicians in an attempt to keep the people from knowing where they are receiving hidden campaign contributions when they are candidates for public office."

The chairman of the House Elections Committee said his substitute would amend the present law by making it applicable only to candidates in areas with populations of more than 15,000, thereby eliminating the 60 to 70 per cent of the candidates now covered by the law who run for minor office.

37 dead or missing in crash of airliner

CHARLOTTE AMALIE, St. Thomas, Virgin Islands (AP) — American Airlines today reported 37 persons dead or missing in the crash of a Boeing 727 jetliner on a runway that officials say is dangerously short.

The Knud-Hansen Hospital said it treated 57 persons injured in the crash Tuesday afternoon. There was still some confusion, but it appeared that 51 of the injured were aboard the plane and six were bystanders on the ground.

The hospital said it was holding 19 of the injured for further treatment. Two others who were badly burned were flown to Puerto Rico. The rest were released from the hospital.

The airline said there were 81 passengers and a crew of seven aboard the plane, including three infants. It said the dead or missing included 35 passengers and two flight attendants. It withheld their home addresses, but the Knud-Hansen Hospital made public those of the injured.

The big jet was arriving on a flight from Providence, R.I., and New York. Most of the passengers were vacationers from the East Coast.

Eyewitnesses said the plane overshot the landing mark at the Harry S. Truman Airport and tried to regain full power but failed to get in the air again.

They said it hit a four-foot embankment at the end of the runway, skidded 300 yards across the road that connects the airport and Charlotte Amalie and slammed into a Shell gasoline station and the St. Thomas Bay Rum factory.

The tail section ripped off and turned over. The fuselage skidded several hundred yards further. Its nose smashed into a palm tree. The right wing and landing gear were thrown 50 feet.

A huge ball of fire shot hundreds of feet into the air.

Ark-Mo ordered to answer questions

CARUTHERSVILLE — Arkansas - Missouri Power Co. has been told by the Missouri Public Service Commission to supply information on 31 items requested by the City of Caruthersville in its opposition to a proposed 30 per cent rate increase for natural gas.

Mayor B. F. "Hot" Rogers Tuesday said the development "is a step in the right direction for us, and I couldn't be happier about it."

The PSC, meanwhile, set aside a week for further arguments by both sides before a formal hearing begins May 10.

The hearing had been scheduled for May 3.

The proposed rate hike is one of several requested by the utility in Missouri, including requests for a 4 per cent increase at Kirksville in Northeast Missouri — the lowest — and 11 per cent at Sikeston.

Caruthersville, the most severely affected, is the only intervenor in the case before the PSC.

Ark-Mo has said it is seeking a higher increase at Caruthersville and the surrounding area in Pemiscot County because it costs the utility more to supply gas to the area.

The city has been joined in its opposition by the Northeast Arkansas Citizens Committee, a consumer group whose chairman, James Deal of Blytheville, attended a conference Monday with PSC officials at Jefferson City along with Ark-Mo representatives. L. T. McSpadden, Ark-Mo's president for legal affairs, said the utility, by law, may no longer impose uniform rates in Missouri as in the past "and because of the differences in customer density it will cost more to service the Caruthersville area."

Caruthersville officials claim that an increase is unjustified since the utility showed a 140 per cent increase in profits last year over 1974.

However, the utility says that is misleading and claims 1974 was "the worst profit year" in Ark-Mo history.

The city has also drawn the support of the Missouri Delta Ecumenical Ministry (MDEM), a church-funded private social organization working with poor people in the Missouri Bootheel.

Larry Levine of Hayti, Mo., director of MDEM, said the organization "plans to continue to be active, and MDEM workers have distributed leaflets titled 'Let's Fight the Ark-Mo Power Rate Increase.'"

The organization said it conducted a survey among 69 low-income households in the Bootheel served by Ark-Mo which showed that the majority are paying over half of their monthly income for utilities and rent," Levine said.

"It would seem imperative and morally just for the company to recognize the awesome burden that high utility rates place on the poor and low energy consuming public," said Jack Scholl, an MDEM economic development worker.

About 100 persons, many on fixed incomes, attended a hearing last week at New Madrid, sponsored by the PSC to hear complaints to the proposed rate hikes.

At least 65 individuals came on a bus arranged by MDEM officials and the Caruthersville mayor.

Asked about the bus, the mayor denied that it was obtained from the school district in Pemiscot County but declined to elaborate.

"I just dug it up; that's all that needs to be said about that," he said.

MDEM officials said they "did not know" where the bus was obtained.

The city, at the urging of the consumer group, requested that Ark-Mo make available information pertaining to an airplane owned by Ark-Mo's parent company, Middle South Utilities Inc., as well as information regarding a "community center" Ark-Mo is said to own near Caruthersville.

"It's an exploratory thing, something we've never been able to find out. But we want to know if these things are part of the company's rate base, and if rate payers are being asked to foot bills," Deal said.

RIDING THE WRONG BUS

By HOWARD FLIEGER

School busing was a key factor in the politics of the Massachusetts primary campaign, just concluded.

And it will be an issue long after the results of that election are forgotten.

Except for the initial burst of emotionalism, busing probably is more controversial now than when it was introduced more than 10 years ago. Common sense warns one it is imprudent to get into a discussion of the practice without a full and dispassionate examination of the whole subject.

Yet, after all these years, one has to wonder whether transporting youngsters from one neighborhood to another is an effective way to achieve that which most Americans genuinely desire — equality for all.

Has it accomplished what it set out to do? Have the black Americans and white been brought closer together by this means?

That is the goal — but are we actually moving toward it or away from it?

The objective of busing is the integration of America's two most populous groups at the level where it really counts — among the young people of both races.

The theory is a simple one: If today's youngsters learn together, they will grow to adulthood together, and think alike.

But how do they learn together? One device — the principal one up to now — is to put youngsters of one American race into a bus and move them across town where they will go to school with youngsters of another American race; blacks learn their ABC's with whites, whites learn their ABC's with blacks. Busing, in theory, puts the two together and makes education color blind.

But does it?

It might be instructive to go back to the study that gave busing its biggest impetus — the so-called Coleman Report of 1967.

That was a study done by the noted sociologist, James S. Coleman, and joined in by others. The long report included such findings as: "If a minority pupil from a home without much educational strength is put with schoolmates with strong educational backgrounds, his achievement is likely to increase."

From such statements, the next step seemed obvious to many equal-right champions: The way to improve an underprivileged child's learning was to move him out of his environment into a classroom association with children of a different — and presumably higher-level — environment.

The premise: Racially separated schools generally were not schools of equal opportunity. So the thing to do was to move black children into predominantly white schools, and vice versa. That, oversimplified, to be sure, was the genesis of busing.

But now there is a second Coleman Report. One of its points is that the first report was misinterpreted. Will the second one suffer the same fate?

The new report seems to say that busing has not cured the ills of segregation, that it has simply replaced old problems with new ones. Professor Coleman told Congress:

"I believe our policies of school desegregation which go beyond the elimination of de jure segregation and toward the imposition of racial balance are counterproductive in our large cities..."

Students of racial equality argue now about the second report's conclusions, just as they did about those expressed in 1967.

No reasonable person can challenge the goal of eradicating racial differences that divide Americans. But, no matter how one feels about the goal of forced busing, there is no doubt that the means has inflicted hardships on children and their families; it has not ended classroom separation of the races; it has not raised the level of public education; nor has it increased voluntary integration.

There must be a better way.

BRAINY BIRDS

The National Audubon Society reports that its Christmas Bird Count this winter recorded the greatest high-low spread in the 76-year history of the annual census of our feathered friends.

At the top of the list, 11,703 birds representing 293 species were sighted in Catemaco, Mexico. At the other extreme, numerically and geographically, a frost-nipped crew at Point Barrow in the northernmost tip of Alaska didn't see a single bird. The reason for such sparse spotting in frigid climes, explains the society, is that many birds head south for the winter.

Which causes us to wonder how the term "bird-brained" ever came to be used to describe a want of intelligence.

SECURITY AND PRESTIGE AT ISSUE IN PANAMA

Even as they celebrate the 200th anniversary of their ancestors' successful struggle for national self-determination, some Americans seem unable or unwilling to understand that other people may have the same aspirations — the Panamanians, for example.

Conservatives, especially, have pumped up the long simmering question of a new Panama Canal treaty — which would lead first to Panama's sharing the operation of the canal and eventually its total control of it — into something posing a direct threat to the security, sovereignty and prestige of the United States.

The draft of the treaty, which U.S. and Panamanian representatives have been working on for the past two years, "involves a surrender and giveaway of American land and of the $6 billion of improvements the American taxpayers have invested there," says Fred Schlafly, president of the oddly named American Council for World Freedom.

The U.S. Canal Zone, he says, "is as much a part of the United States as Alaska or the states carved out of the Louisiana Purchase."

This extravagant claim is echoed by conservative spokesman M. Stanton Evans, writing in the publication, Human Events. "It makes no more sense to abrogate our sovereign rights there (the Canal Zone) than to propose that we give the midwestern United States back to France, or return Alaska to the Soviet Union."

By terms of the 1903 treaty with Panama, sovereign rights over the Canal Zone are vested in the United States "in perpetuity," Evans points out.

This kind of superpatriotic, unyielding attitude is as dangerous as it is fallacious. It is ridiculous on the face of it to compare the Canal Zone to the acquisition of the Louisiana territory.

That purchase did not involve a strip of land extending a mere five miles on either side of the Mississippi, and completely surrounded by an independent, foreign nation.

As for treaties designed to endure "in perpetuity," the American Indian could cite any number of instances where "perpetuity" lasted only as long as it was convenient for the expanding United States.

But we are not dealing in Panama with a few thousand powerless Indians but with a sovereign nation we helped create. The United States can no more hope to maintain the status quo in the Canal Zone indefinitely than Britain could have maintained its control over the Suez Canal — not without going to war against the entire Arab world.

The threat of war, or certainly of sabotage and terrorism in the Canal Zone, is a very real one, warns chief U.S. negotiator Ellsworth Bunker. In 1964, rioting in Panama killed 21 Panamanians and three American soldiers.

So far, the government of Gen.

Omar Torrijos Herrera, who may be an unelected dictator but who unquestionably represents the feeling of Panamanians on this issue, has been able to keep a lid on further violence. But if violence breaks out again, he has said, "two courses would be open to me — to smash it or lead it, and I am not going to smash it."

The conservatives are right when they say that the Panama Canal is vital to the United States. Besides its strategic military importance, one-sixth of our foreign trade tonnage goes through it.

The question boils down to this: Do we wish to continue using this essential waterway under the terms of a new treaty which would respect both the special interest of the United States and the legitimate claims of Panama? Or do we want to send an army of occupation into the Canal Zone and incur the undying hatred not only of the Panamanians but of all of Latin America — just so we can continue using "our" canal?

In truth, nothing could be better calculated to damage the real interests and security of the United States than a don't-budge-an-inch posture towards Panama.

SOMETHING QUITE DIFFERENT

What seems to be overlooked in most of the discussion of major National Health Insurance proposals now before Congress is that the United States already has a plan of National Health Insurance.

Except for those people covered under the federally-financed medicare and medicaid programs, this established NHI system is run by the private insurance industry rather than the federal government. Eight out of ten Americans under 65 have some form of health insurance, such as Blue Cross for hospitalization and Blue Shield for doctor bills.

In considering the role of private health insurance organizations in any federal National Health Insurance program that may eventually be authorized, it is imperative to recognize the source of past progress. The private insurance industry has been a primary leader in developing ways to monitor and control medical costs and quality of health care provided. It has been the instigator of new approaches to making that care available to people who need it. The nation's largest health care prepayment organization has, for example, developed some of the most successful prepaid group practice or health maintenance organization (HMO) systems in the nation. It has provided new coverage for the catastrophic costs of major illness and in its California plan, which processes some 2.6 million claims per year and pays medical costs of over $141 million, it has set up one of the best peer review and care evaluation programs in the country. Now new ways to cover the costs of illness outside of hospitals — and thus reduce hospital expense and crowding — are in the works.

It is one thing to require employers to provide medical insurance coverage or use federal funds to broaden the application of such coverage to those who may not presently have it. But, as one medical spokesman observes, "It is something quite different to institute increased payroll taxes, destroy the future of private insurance and shift a well-regarded private function into a federal agency. To build on what has been operating successfully for decades through...the private insurance industry and the newer experimental prepayment programs would be an exercise in sound judgment and would almost inevitably reduce expenses." Massive, ill-directed and duplicative federal expenditures in the area of medicine, at this time, could overburden the available system of delivery, increase medical costs and be a major factor in sending inflation flying right out of the ball park.

LEARNING TO LIVE WITH NUCLEAR POWER

It isn't the question of safety that is the main obstacle to the peaceful use of nuclear energy but simple human nature.

So contends "human ecologist" Garrett Hardin of the University of California. The human-risk factor was not considered in the Rasmussen Report, the federal government's $2-million study of nuclear energy safety, he says.

"This study ignored the unreliability of human beings considered as individuals and as members of malcontented groups seeking social justice (as they perceive it) through acts of sabotage and terrorism."

Hardin has promulgated what he calls the basic law of peaceful atomic energy: "A pluralistic society that cannot survive without atomic energy cannot survive with it."

Once this is accepted, he told the recent meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science in Boston, there are only two avenues of escape from inevitable tragedy.

One is to change our pluralistic society into one that is so completely totalitarian that sabotage and terrorism can be prevented. The other is to diminish our total energy needs by diminishing either individual energy use or population size, or both.

What Hardin suggests, however, amounts to the same thing as handing over our future as hostage to the crackpots among us, but his way would do so simply out of the fear that they might, by some remote possibility, steal enough plutonium to manufacture an atomic bomb with which to blackmail the world.

He also ignores another basic law, and that is that it is foolhardy to attempt to formulate long-range social policy on the basis of the current state of any given technology. Otherwise, we should have banned the smoke-belching internal combustion engine as a public menace back in the 1890s.

There are reactor designs under development which promise much more efficient and safe production of nuclear energy and which do not use uranium or its dangerous byproducts, plutonium.

For better or worse, man has bitten into the apple of technology and must learn to adapt himself to the consequences. As another scientist pointed out in Boston, there is no perfect safety, and the best we can do is apply our knowledge to the creation of a safe and sane and healthy a world as possible.

Inside Labor

Stretching the Strategy:

Rubber Walkout Test of possibility of multi-national union global strikes

WASHINGTON — The rubber strike could explode into a global spectacular — or it could whimper into a long wearying network of idling pickets learning the hard way it doesn't always pay to scream "strike."

This walkout by $9-an-hour tire, rubber and chemical making proletarians could trigger the inflation escalator skyward just as giddy prices appear to rest from sheer exhaustion.

If the AFL-CIO United Rubber Workers union (URW) succeeds after a four-week strike, this agitated union will set some precedents which will switch the train of history — as the semi-skilled intellectuals say — into unprecedented new routes on the labor front.

Few realize that this stoppage is the first test of an American union's effort to call a global — or at least inter-continental — walkout or job action boycott.

If successful, union president Pete Bommarito will have made his URW the first effective multi-national union.

Bommarito has called for an international boycott of America's Big Four tire companies. What he's really doing in strike headquarters in Cleveland and Akron, Ohio, is calling in his European IOUs. Bommarito is vice president and a member of the executive board of something known as an international secretariat — the Geneva-based International Federation of Chemical and General Workers' unions (ICF). Late in March 1973 he and other ICF leaders of rubber unions in 18 countries met in Paris and organized special workers' World Councils, each to deal with one of the tire-producing multi-nationals such as Firestone, Goodyear, and Michelin. Bommarito, who also has a solidarity pact with the Japanese Rubber Workers Union, was named chairman of the councils.

At that time, after assuring his American followers that he had not gone to taste the Parisian cuisine or saunter through the Louvre, Bommarito, who's also a national AFL-CIO vice president, asserted confidently: "I'm tremendously optimistic. If we ever need international aid to win a settlement in America, I have all the confidence in the world that we will have such cooperation through the rubber councils and the ICF on the whole."

This ICF is headed by the 54-year-old Charles (Chip) Levinson. He's Canadian-born but knows New York and Brooklyn as well as he does Washington and Geneva. Levinson is one of those internationalists who live in a crackling, borderless world. He's a socialist but mighty pragmatic. Having once worked with Walter and Victor Reuther, he's not exactly popular in AFL-CIO command circles. But he has allied himself not only with Bommarito and the rubber workers, but with the

NATURAL LAWS PREVAIL

The moment something becomes scarce, people want more of it. This truism of human behavior has been demonstrated in some surprising areas lately. Even those colorful squares of paper known as trading stamps have been in short supply as gas-short service stations have cut back efforts to attract customers, and supermarkets have dropped stamp giving in place of other business promotional practices such as discounting. This finding of an authoritative nationwide survey shows that, ironically, more people like trading stamps than actually save them.

As one press report comments, "The survey showed an expected decline in the number of households that saved stamps — down to 64 per cent in 1973 from 70 per cent the year before. But there was an unexpected rise in the number of people who said they liked stamps — up to 71 per cent from 66 per cent in 1972." In commenting on the rise in the numbers of people expressing a liking for trading stamps, the company making the survey said, "It may be part of human nature that something that is readily available is taken for granted, but as it becomes more difficult to obtain it receives greater appreciation."

It is almost inevitable that, in the light of the facts of public desire for trading stamps, prophets of doom for trading stamp companies will sooner or later have to eat their words. If American families want trading stamps, promotion policies of industries and companies will tend to emphasize stamp-giving programs. No private enterprise knowingly violates the natural laws of the marketplace. Those natural laws are the consumers' greatest protection. They are superior to the wisest man-made laws ever devised.

Teamsters Brotherhood, which pays the ICF per capita dues for some 750,000 of its members. And which once slapped down the Michelin tire company by threatening a boycott at Chip Levinson's request.

Recently "Chip" sat in on a URW strategy session in Ohio — and pledged full support of his "international secretariat." This mean, Levinson told me during a transatlantic telephone interview, that "we will hit the tire companies, especially Firestone in Europe. How? By refusing to work overtime, especially at their German plants, and by stalling contract talks in Europe so we can tie them up if necessary."

There are many skilled intellectuals who pooh-pooh Levinson and his ICF. This has been a controversial matter inside the scholarly circle specializing in international labor. However, we soon will see if a global boycott or world job action or any intercontinental collaboration can affect an American strike.

If ICF succeeds in hurting Firestone (Bommarito's first objective in cracking the rubber industry's line), then the same tactic will be invoked by United Auto Workers' president Leonard Woodcock when he begins negotiating with the Big Three car companies in mid-July.

Woodcock is president of the automotive councils, also Geneva-based, of the International Metal Workers' Federation. And they do have clout. They're tied in with the powerful, albeit unknown here, Egon Loderer, head of the 2-million-member German union, "IG Metall," which could shut down all multi-national auto plants in the Federal Republic.

They will meet in a world conference in Munich, May 10-13. If Bommarito is hurting Firestone in Europe with ICF's global action, Woodcock may well go in for the same multi-union strategy.

If the rubber union strike pressures the Big Four rubber companies into a heavy settlement the size of the teamsters', it would have input into and impact on the low-visibility negotiations in New York City between the International Union of Electrical Workers (IUE) and the coordinated Bargain Committee on one side and the General Electric Co. Certainly the coordinated labor committee won't take less than what Bommarito's union gets. Nor will the UAW, when it bargains for some 750,000 auto workers. Bommarito is making ripples. If he turns them into waves, the rip tide will smash efforts to hold down inflation. This nation will be hurtled into double-digit inflation.

None of this will do the $9-an-hour rubber workers any good. America's tire industry will price itself out of much of the competition with foreign producers. Layoffs will follow. Time has come for the rank and file to do its homework before it needles its leaders into calling strikes which foul up the economic air. Nobody wins.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: The National Suggestion Box with LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — Even as we celebrate the bicentennial, some of us have an uneasy sense that government of, by and for the people is slipping away from us.

Events daily reinforce this uneasiness. The tax bite grows ever bigger, except for favored interests, while public services decay. The rapist and robber are forever being let free to prowl again by a legal system that seems impervious to the public demand that dangerous criminals stay locked up.

The residential neighborhood is regularly bulldozed under to make way for the office building or the highway extension, as though only the construction lobbies have the inside track on public decisions.

The businessman is almost hopelessly entangled in government red tape spun by a mindless process of bureaucratic accretion that all profess to deplore but none seem able to halt.

Meanwhile, the government that so often seems rented out to the predators and power blocs also seems dried up of genuine ideas. Problems mount, but officialdom gibbers and offers no solutions.

Despite failures that should humble the vainest, the bureaucracy grows more arrogant, more contemptuous of the public, more given to entrenching itself in a labyrinthine fortress wherein it is impenetrable to the people and uncontrollable even by presidents and Congresses.

Thus has a tragic estrangement grown up between the citizenry and their government. A majority now believe that our institutions do not hear us, do not serve us and do not want to serve us. Have we built a robot so complicated we cannot run it and it runs us? It depends on what steps are taken now. Government can be made accountable, even if it has to be dismantled bureau by bureau. The voice of the individual can be made to register once again.

True participation by the people in public decisions can be made not just a possibility but a prerequisite. Either we must now make these goals the key items on our national agenda, or we must write the epitaph of the American idea.

As a beginning, we wish to offer a modest proposal. It springs from the fact that we have a line of daily communication with 50 million readers in close to 1,000 newspapers, a line of communication that can be used to combat the individual citizen's despairing belief that no one in government is listening.

We have established a National Suggestion Box which will receive your ideas for the solution of national problems and the righting of governmental wrongs. Millions of Americans have good ideas and valuable perspectives, which are sorely needed to revitalize the nation.

But they feel that they have no place to go with their ideas, for the government has a special talent for resisting outside suggestions and giving people the runaround. So if you have an idea, send it to the National Suggestion Box.

Here's what we'll do with it. We will publicize ideas of special merit. We will follow up these proposals, urging their adoption. We cannot demand that your proposals be accepted; we can merely demand that they be considered.

To run this program, we have set up a small organization. President Edward Piszek of the Copernicus Society of America, a group devoted to good causes, has offered to help fund it. The rest is up to you. Write to us at the National Suggestion Box, Box 2009, Washington, D.C.

As a typical example, we have previously received suggestions that federal agencies should have to be renewed every four years. Those that become obsolete or unproductive should automatically die.

This would require the federal agencies to justify their reestablishment. It would offer a real incentive for citizens' groups to monitor the bureaucracy and bring pressure to bear on Congress at the optimal time.

The idea has now been put into legislative form by Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Me. Similar ideas from the public should be presented and discussed. They may be grandiose schemes or small suggestions. Our intent is to open up a dialogue between the governed and their governors.

What we seek to do, in a large sense, is to return government to the people and encourage Americans to rise as never before to the status of true citizenship. We must be more than regular taxpayers and sometime voters.

Wendell Berry, the Kentucky poet-farmer, has described what it will take to maintain a free and responsible society: "I have begun to understand citizenship in more complex terms. As I have come to see it, it requires devotion and dedication, and a certain inescapable bewilderment and suffering."

"It needs all the virtues, all of one's attention, all the knowledge that one can gain and bring to bear, all the powers of one's imagination and conscience and feeling. It is the complete action. Rightly understood, its influence and concern permeate the whole society, from the children's bedroom to the capitol."

This is a tall order. But it may be the price of your freedom, and it is assuredly the price of your children's freedom.

New department heads are named

CAPE GIRARDEAU — The individuals who will head three of 12 new departments which were created last month by academic reorganization at Southeast Missouri State University were announced today by the university president, Dr. Robert Leestamper.

Dr. Gerald Giesler will head the department of economics, Dr. Louise Reddick will head the department of management and Dr. Fred Snider will head the department of psychology.

All of the appointments are subject to the approval of the university's Board of Regents. The regents will act on the recommendations at their May meeting.

July 1 is the date when the academic reorganization will go into effect. The reorganization generally consisted of restructuring the academic organization chart from a division to a college arrangement, which is considered typical for an institution of Southeast Missouri State's size and type.

The department of economics is one of five departments under the new College of Social Sciences. The department of management is one of five departments under the new College of Business, and the department of psychology is one of two departments under the new College of Education.

Other new departments created by the reorganization are accounting and finance, marketing, computer science, business education and office administration, law enforcement, political science, sociology and anthropology, education and philosophy.

Dr. Leestamper is in the process of developing other recommendations for the Board of Regents' consideration, and he said additional announcements will be made prior to the May 27 board meeting.

Each of the new department heads will receive compensation for the administrative duties and may also receive a reduction in teaching load under certain conditions.

Dr. Giesler, who is now acting head of the department of social science (which goes out of existence July 1), has been on the Southeast Missouri State faculty since 1968.

An associate professor, he was born in St. Marys and graduated from Valle High School in Ste. Genevieve. He has bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Missouri and a doctor of philosophy degree from Louisiana State University at Baton Rouge, La., where he was both a graduate assistant and an instructor.

Dr. Giesler and his wife Barbara have four children. The family lives at 1501 Jane Drive.

Dr. Reddick, a full professor, has been a member of the Southeast Missouri State faculty since 1969. Prior to coming to Cape Girardeau, she was head of the department of business and economics at Evangel College in Springfield for 10 years and was Evangel's director of institutional research for two years. She has also been a teaching assistant at North Texas State University in Denton, Tex., where she earned her doctorate in 1968.

A native of Oklahoma, Dr. Reddick received her bachelor's degree at Texas Christian University in Fort Worth and her master's degree at University of Texas in Austin, Tex.

She lives at 1907 Colonial Lane.

Dr. Snider, who was born in Poplar Bluff and graduated from high school in Puxico, earned his bachelor's degree at Southeast Missouri State in 1960, majoring in mathematics and minoring in business.

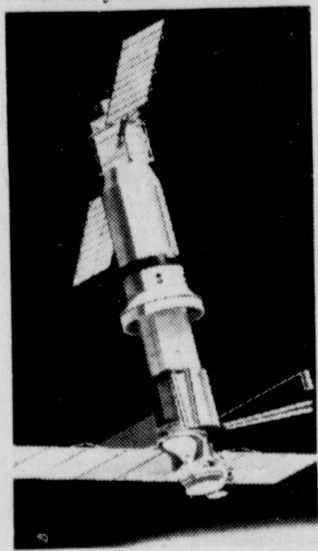

After teaching for several years in the public schools in Bismarck and Cape Girardeau, he entered the University of Missouri for graduate study in psychology. He earned a master's degree in 1966 and a Ph.D. in 1968.

Prior to returning to his alma mater in 1969, he spent one year on the faculty of Western Illinois University in Macomb. He is currently an associate professor.

Dr. Snider and his wife Daria Kay have two daughters. The family lives at 1719 Lakeshore Drive.

Each of the three new department heads is a member of various professional organizations and has held various committee assignments at Southeast Missouri State. Dr. Reddick, in addition, served as chairwoman of the Faculty Senate at Southeast Missouri State during the 1974-75 academic year.

OCEAN-surveying satellite, SEASAT-A, to be launched by NASA in 1978 will measure wave heights, provide radar images of waves and ice fields and measure surface winds, directions and temperatures. Data gathered will be available to government agencies, universities and commercial users.

Third annual Heritage Tour is scheduled

CAPE GIRARDEAU — In celebration of the American Revolution Bicentennial, the Historical Association of Greater Cape Girardeau presents the third annual Heritage Tour. The tours will be held Saturday and Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m.

Tickets may be picked up anywhere on the tour or in advance from the Lemon Tree, Independence Station or the Carriage House in Cape Girardeau. Persons aged 12-18 will be admitted for half-price if they are part of an organized group that has a sponsor who purchases all tickets in advance. These may be ordered from Mrs. A.M. Spradling III, 720 Caruthers, Cape Girardeau.

Five homes will be shown in the tour. An added highlight this year will be the president's home on the campus of Southeast Missouri State University, the home of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Leestamper. Other homes are Mr. and Mrs. John T. Lamkin, 702 North; Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Canova, 319 N. Middle; Dr. and Mrs. Bert Kellerman, 6 S. Fountain; and The Glenn House at 325 S. Spanish.

The proceeds of the tour will help in the refurbishing of The Glenn House.

500 are expected to attend highway safety conference

JEFFERSON CITY — The 1976 Governor's Conference for Highway Safety, scheduled today and Thursday in Jefferson City, is expected to attract about 500 persons involved in highway safety, law enforcement and education, according to Paul Collins, director of the Missouri Division of Highway Safety.

The annual conferences are conducted by the division, in cooperation with the Missouri Safety Council. This year's meeting will be at Ramada Inn.

Collins said speakers for the ninth annual conference include Gov. Christopher S. Bond, Lt. Gov. William C. Phelps, Attorney General John C. Danforth, Public Safety Director Michael D. Garrett and Fred Vetter of Washington, D.C., associate administrator of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration. Bond was scheduled to deliver the noon luncheon address today. Other speakers on today's program included Garrett; Joseph R. Coupal, deputy administrator of the Federal Highway Administration; Washington; Bert Wheat, vice president for safety, Eastern Express, Inc., Terre Haute, Ind.; Vetter; Tom Oswald, Kirksville attorney; and Bob Devaney, University of Nebraska athletic director and noted speaker.

At an awards banquet tonight, Phelps will address the delegates and present certificates of appreciation to about 40 Missouri cities that "enjoyed a fatality-free year on their streets in 1975," Collins noted.

On Thursday, Carlton Fisher, the Georgia governor's highway safety representative, will address the group. Fisher is serving a second consecutive term as chairman of the National Conference of Governors' Highway Safety Representatives.

On the morning program with Fisher are Gerald Coughlin, director of the Alcohol Rehabilitation Unit at Jackson County Hospital, and Col. Sam S. Smith, superintendent of the Missouri State Highway Patrol.

The conference will conclude with a noon luncheon and an address by Devaney, known nationwide both for his coaching ability and as an after dinner speaker. Topics to be covered during the two-day event will include alcohol in relation to highway safety, traffic courts, legislation, police traffic services and a number of the federal highway safety program standards, Collins added.

Constitutional ban on abortion sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators opposed to abortion are taking their bid for a constitutional amendment against the procedure directly to the Senate floor.

Senate action was slated today on a proposal by Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., to include a

"right-to-life" provision in the Constitution.

But Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., said he would move to have the Helms measure rejected, and he claims he has the votes to do it.

Bayh is chairman of the Senate judiciary subcommittee, which last September rejected Helms' proposal and several other antiabortion measures.

Bayh says he personally opposes abortions but that he doesn't feel amending the Constitution is the way to deal with the emotionally charged issue. And he says he supports the landmark 1973 ruling by the Supreme Court, which limited state powers to enact antiabortion statutes.

Helms went around Bayh's judiciary subcommittee in a parliamentary maneuver that brings the issue directly to the floor for a vote.

His proposed constitutional amendment states that "every human being ... shall be deemed from the moment of fertilization to be a person and entitled to the right to life."

It also would give Congress and the states the authority to enforce antiabortion laws.

The measure requires two-thirds approval by both the House and Senate and then ratification by three-fourths of the 50 state legislatures to become part of the Constitution.

Even advocates of such an amendment concede that obtaining the needed votes in Congress appears slim, at best.

But Helms said that, if nothing else, he wants "the full Senate to deliberate the proposition before the eyes of the nation and go on record for or against the Supreme Court decision which created our present crisis."

Sen. James L. Buckley, R-Con-N.Y., said he would offer a substitute to Helms' proposal that would make abortion permissible in cases when it is deemed necessary to save the life of the mother.

The Helms proposal would be a blanket ban on all abortions, although a Helms aide said that abortions to save a mother's life would probably be permissible.

Household hints

The true story of how doughnuts got their hole may never be known, but ever since colonial days, doughnuts have been traditional. For best results, preheat oil to 375 degrees before frying, and try not to crowd doughnuts in the pan. After they rise to the surface and become golden brown on the bottom, turn with a fork. Drain on absorbent paper — paper toweling is perfect. Roll or shake warm doughnuts in plain or cinnamon sugar. And remember the holes, they are a special treat for the youngsters.

Ann Landers

Loneliness: another view of pet lovers

Dear Ann Landers: I'd like to comment on the couple who bought a monkey and dressed her in organdy pinafores and patent leather shoes. You answered, "Of course the pets are substitutes for the real thing, but if people prefer substitutes, that's their business."

How do you know they PREFER substitutes? When I gave birth to a stillborn child, I was given a small puppy. I didn't have the strength to care for a baby if one had been available. The puppy was a warm, live, lovable creature, and better than nothing.

Yet some of our friends made snide remarks about "selfish, sick people" who spend money feeding and grooming a poodle when there are hungry children in Biafra.

Why buy an organdy dress and patent leather shoes for a monkey? Only the couple who did it knows the answer. But have you checked the adoption agencies lately? God alone knows why some parents who have children abuse them while thousands of childless couples have to settle for dogs, cats and monkeys. — Tear In Tulsa

Dear Tulsa: Thank you for a thoughtful and provocative letter. I learned something today and I'm sure many others did, too.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a member of a Jewish congregation. Doctors, lawyers, teachers and other professionals are willing to submit their credentials for approval at all times. I've noticed that many so-called rabbis, when interviewed for a position, resent being asked to present their ordination papers.

I know of one instance where a "rabbi" became indignant and treated the request as an insult. Nevertheless, he was invited to occupy the pulpit the following Friday night and made an impressive presentation. He was almost hired on the spot, but a secret committee decided to check him out. They discovered the man had no formal religious training for the rabbinate and had never been ordained.

How can people protect themselves against such fakes? — Close Call In Philadelphia

Dear C.C.: Every now and then we read about someone who was caught "playing" doctor, lawyer or college professor. No field is free of imposters, including the rabbinate. The best protection is the one you described. Insist on credentials, then check them out to make sure they are legitimate.

Dear Ann Landers: I have a friend who is a health food nut. She doesn't eat enough to keep a bird alive. Of course she is skinny as a rat. In fact, she eats like a rat. Cheese, cheese, cheese.

When we have lunch together we usually go to a cafeteria. The minute we sit down she looks at my tray and says, "Ick! How can you eat that junk? Do you have any idea the number of calories in that piece of pie?" Then out comes her chart and my lunch is ruined.

I am not fat. I'm in good health. I enjoy food. What can I do to get her off my back? — Sick Of The Put-Down

Dear P.D.: Probably nothing, so find someone else to eat with. While she is undoubtedly a fanatic, you must also be a little wacky to subject yourself to such unpleasant company.

It's not always easy to recognize love, especially the first time around. Acquaint yourself with the guidelines. Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Love or Sex and How To Tell the Difference." For a copy, mail 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Constitutional ban on abortion sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators opposed to abortion are taking their bid for a constitutional amendment against the procedure directly to the Senate floor.

Senate action was slated today on a proposal by Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., to include a

"right-to-life" provision in the Constitution.

But Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., said he would move to have the Helms measure rejected, and he claims he has the votes to do it.

Bayh is chairman of the Senate judiciary subcommittee, which last September rejected Helms' proposal and several other antiabortion measures.

Bayh says he personally opposes abortions but that he doesn't feel amending the Constitution is the way to deal with the emotionally charged issue. And he says he supports the landmark 1973 ruling by the Supreme Court, which limited state powers to enact antiabortion statutes.

Helms went around Bayh's judiciary subcommittee in a parliamentary maneuver that brings the issue directly to the floor for a vote.

His proposed constitutional amendment states that "every human being ... shall be deemed from the moment of fertilization to be a person and entitled to the right to life."

It also would give Congress and the states the authority to enforce antiabortion laws.

The measure requires two-thirds approval by both the House and Senate and then ratification by three-fourths of the 50 state legislatures to become part of the Constitution.

Even advocates of such an amendment concede that obtaining the needed votes in Congress appears slim, at best.

But Helms said that, if nothing else, he wants "the full Senate to deliberate the proposition before the eyes of the nation and go on record for or against the Supreme Court decision which created our present crisis."

Sen. James L. Buckley, R-Con-N.Y., said he would offer a substitute to Helms' proposal that would make abortion permissible in cases when it is deemed necessary to save the life of the mother.

The Helms proposal would be a blanket ban on all abortions, although a Helms aide said that abortions to save a mother's life would probably be permissible.

Household hints

The true story of how doughnuts got their hole may never be known, but ever since colonial days, doughnuts have been traditional. For best results, preheat oil to 375 degrees before frying, and try not to crowd doughnuts in the pan. After they rise to the surface and become golden brown on the bottom, turn with a fork. Drain on absorbent paper — paper toweling is perfect. Roll or shake warm doughnuts in plain or cinnamon sugar. And remember the holes, they are a special treat for the youngsters.

Ann Landers

Loneliness: another view of pet lovers

Dear Ann Landers: I'd like to comment on the couple who bought a monkey and dressed her in organdy pinafores and patent leather shoes. You answered, "Of course the pets are substitutes for the real thing, but if people prefer substitutes, that's their business."

How do you know they PREFER substitutes? When I gave birth to a stillborn child, I was given a small puppy. I didn't have the strength to care for a baby if one had been available. The puppy was a warm, live, lovable creature, and better than nothing.

Yet some of our friends made snide remarks about "selfish, sick people" who spend money feeding and grooming a poodle when there are hungry children in Biafra.

Why buy an organdy dress and patent leather shoes for a monkey? Only the couple who did it knows the answer. But have you checked the adoption agencies lately? God alone knows why some parents who have children abuse them while thousands of childless couples have to settle for dogs, cats and monkeys. — Tear In Tulsa

Dear Tulsa: Thank you for a thoughtful and provocative letter. I learned something today and I'm sure many others did, too.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a member of a Jewish congregation. Doctors, lawyers, teachers and other professionals are willing to submit their credentials for approval at all times. I've noticed that many so-called rabbis, when interviewed for a position, resent being asked to present their ordination papers.

I know of one instance where a "rabbi" became indignant and treated the request as an insult. Nevertheless, he was invited to occupy the pulpit the following Friday night and made an impressive presentation. He was almost hired on the spot, but a secret committee decided to check him out. They discovered the man had no formal religious training for the rabbinate and had never been ordained.

How can people protect themselves against such fakes? — Close Call In Philadelphia

Dear C.C.: Every now and then we read about someone who was caught "playing" doctor, lawyer or college professor. No field is free of imposters, including the rabbinate. The best protection is the one you described. Insist on credentials, then check them out to make sure they are legitimate.

Dear Ann Landers: I have a friend who is a health food nut. She doesn't eat enough to keep a bird alive. Of course she is skinny as a rat. In fact, she eats like a rat. Cheese, cheese, cheese.

When we have lunch together we usually go to a cafeteria. The minute we sit down she looks at my tray and says, "Ick! How can you eat that junk? Do you have any idea the number of calories in that piece of pie?" Then out comes her chart and my lunch is ruined.

I am not fat. I'm in good health. I enjoy food. What can I do to get her off my back? — Sick Of The Put-Down

Dear P.D.: Probably nothing, so find someone else to eat with. While she is undoubtedly a fanatic, you must also be a little wacky to subject yourself to such unpleasant company.

It's not always easy to recognize love, especially the first time around. Acquaint yourself with the guidelines. Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Love or Sex and How To Tell the Difference." For a copy, mail 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

3 R's to get boost

JEFFERSON CITY — Instruction in the basic skills will be a major thrust in Missouri's elementary and secondary schools in coming years.

The Missouri State Board of Education established its major educational goals for the foreseeable future at its April 22-23 meeting, and the basic skills received a strong top priority rating.

Although somewhat similar to the old three R's approach to education, the new emphasis on the basics will be broader in scope and more thorough in approach.

For example, with the "basics" approach, elementary school students should: read at a literate level; be able to write and speak a good paragraph; have a good working knowledge of arithmetic, including the ability to figure interest and similar problems; have general knowledge of the American economic system; and be informed about government and the rights and responsibilities of citizenship in a free society.

The approach also would involve a number of practical living skills, ranging from more emphasis on spelling to the ability to comprehend consumer price information.

Other priorities and the order of their ranking are: Early childhood and parenting education; accountability, which includes the statewide testing and student assessment programs; school finance; the instructional skills, which includes the expansion of successful new instructional programs; urban education; and needed legislation.

The board, which also serves as the State Board for Vocational Education, listed the work of Task Force 1990 as its top priority in this area. Task Force 1990 is a committee of 20 prominent Missourians organized to make specific recommendations about the future needs, best delivery systems, costs and objectives of vocational education during coming years.

"Selection of these priorities means that we believe these are educational goals which need attention," said board president Zack F. Bettis. "It doesn't mean necessarily that these are the most important things we are doing. For example, the work in special education, under provisions of recent state legislation, is going quite well, as is other work undertaken by the Department of Elementary and Secondary Education."

The board instructed Commissioner of Education Arthur L. Mallory to take two immediate steps in regard to the new goals. The first is to explore the ways, if any, which the basic skills program should be related to the classification of schools and present high school graduation requirements.

Another action would be to have the State Department of Elementary and Secondary Education develop tentative plans for achieving the goals which can be studied by the state board.

"Of course, we presently are doing a lot of things in some of these priority areas," Mallory said, "but the state board's action gives us a strong, new impetus and will provide incentive and direction for Missouri educators. These priorities are a challenge for accomplishment and I firmly believe the board's action will benefit the more than one million public school students in our state."

Mallory said the State Department of Education will begin work immediately on plans to better implement the priority programs.

Moore will attend Berklee music program

BOSTON — Boston's Berklee College of Music has accepted Joseph Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Moore of Sikeston, Mo., for entrance to its intensive special seven-week summer program which commences on June 24. His curriculum will include private instrumental instruction, arranging, and solo-orchestral performance.

The seven-week program is designed to assess the musical talent, capacity and growth potential of the student considering music as a vocation. Through the development of special techniques and testing methods, the individual's aptitude and talent is measured prior to his/her embarking on the long training course of a formal musical education on the college level.

Joseph will be instructed by the Berklee faculty and will have exposure to many educators and professionals enrolled in this summer program.

Camping program offered

JEFFERSON CITY — Reservations are now being accepted for the third summer session of the Learn to Camp Program, Missouri State Parks Director William K. Wight has announced.

The Learn to Camp Program is designed for beginning family campers and is offered at three state parks in Missouri — Washington, Wallace and Fomine de Terre. This year's session will begin June 7 and continue through Aug. 13.

Participating families will spend two nights and three days during the week camping in one of three state parks. In cooperation with Wenzel Co., the Division of Parks and Recreation will provide tents, dining canopies, cots, lanterns, camp stoves and cooking grates. A camp programmer will teach the family basic camping skills, including tent erection and care and outdoor cooking.

Each family participating in the program will provide its own food and personal equipment. The division offers suggested equipment and grocery lists to families when reservations are made.

Total cost of the Learn to Camp program for each family is $9, including the basic camping fee for two nights and a $3, non-refundable, registration fee. Reservations are made through the Missouri Department of Natural Resources, Division of Parks and Recreation, P.O. Box 176, Jefferson City, Mo. 65101. All reservations must be made at least 15 days prior to the dates chosen by the family wishing to participate.

Each state park where this camping program is offered is within an hour's drive of a major metropolitan area.

Washington State Park is located about 55 miles southwest of St. Louis near Desoto. Big River borders this 1,415-acre tract and offers canoeing, boating and fishing opportunities. The park also has a modern swimming pool, dining lodge, picnic areas and trails. There are two Indian petroglyph rock carving sites which have been preserved in the park and interpreted for visitors. The camping area at Washington State Park has modern restrooms and hot showers.

Wallace State Park is located about 50 miles northeast of Kansas City near Eminence.

Art council is seeking visual artist

ST. LOUIS — The Missouri Arts Council has announced that it is seeking professional visual artists for two full-time or four half-time residences in Missouri elementary and secondary schools for the 1976-77 school year. The residences are planned for sponsorship by school districts predominantly in smaller cities of Missouri under the artists-in-schools (AIS) program supported by the National Endowment for the Arts and the Missouri Arts Council.

Under the AIS program, an artist devotes half a week to working with students and teachers in a school system and half a week to his own work. He is not regarded as a member of the teaching staff, but rather as a practicing artist working in his or her own art in a school, for the enrichment of the entire learning environment and the community.

The artist is required to live in the immediate area during the time of the residency so that he or she can become more involved in the community and its activities. He is paid a salary commensurate with a full-time annual position. The planned positions are open to application by painters, sculptors, print-makers and other graphic artists, craftsmen, architects and city planners. Applicants will be judged on their artistic excellence and interest, and must have a demonstrable ability to work well with children and teachers in a school situation.

Interested artists should submit by May 7 the following information: 1. personal vitae, and 2. three to five slides of their work, to Kate Kimeiman, AIS Coordinator, Missouri Arts Council, 111 S. Berniston, Suite 410, St. Louis, Mo. 63105.

In addition, applicants should be willing to relocate and state if there are any areas in Missouri where they will not accept a residency. No actual work will be accepted and slides cannot be returned.

Applicants will be screened by a panel including educators from the sponsoring schools and artists, as prescribed by national AIS guidelines, and should be available for interviews in late May and early June. Final selections will be announced by June 15.

Charles Blanton, Jr., Editor, Sikeston Daily Standard, Sikeston, Missouri 63801

Dear Mr. Blanton:

A few weeks ago you featured an editorial comment on jogging and its purported bad effect according to Playboy magazine and Dr. Smith—the latter a non authority and the former hardly a scientific journal. More and more physicians are getting themselves and their patients into endurance running. However we cannot expect a non running doctor to realize fully much less recommend the benefits of that type of exercise to his patients. Such daily activity can add years to one's life when practiced properly and the well being and exhilaration experienced by its practitioners has no measure. Recent studies from the Mayo Clinic have brought out the fact that even in heart patients with angina, graduated exercise under regulated circumstances is of immense benefit to the patient in terms of well being, positive attitude and decrease in angina.

The pendulum in this country is swinging away from the spectator sports culture toward one of participation in physical exercise. However it does appear true that each generation has to be reeducated about the virtues of exercise. Aristotle in Ancient Greece stated, "A man falls into ill health as a result of not caring for exercise..." In this country, in the Eighteenth Century, Benjamin Rush extolled exercise as a means of health in a "sermon on exercise".

There is little doubt as to which portion of the human anatomy—Dr. Smith notwithstanding—the good Lord meant for callouses to be on. Rather than sitting there watching The Six Million Dollar Man on television, why not feel like him (and not just because of your medical bills). My suggestion is that rather than reading Playboy, your whole editorial staff get out there on the track every afternoon at five. With best personal regards, I am,

Very truly yours,
Jean Rene Dupont

GLASS FACTS

A LOST ART?
The America of yesterday lives today, and the Bicentennial is the time to appreciate it. On the east bank of the James River in Virginia, costumed men in a temporary shelter make glass bottles in the painstaking fashion of their colonial forefathers. Working with an iron furnace, 17th century tools, and raw materials such as sand, lime, and wood ashes these 20th century craftsmen laboriously produce works of art reminiscent of the early 1600s.

Watching the craftsmen at work reminds one of the problems faced by the early Jamestown settlers. Like any new venture, glass making was experimental at best, and accomplished under arduous conditions. In fact, the first effort lasted less than a year. A second attempt on the same site was launched in 1621 and lasted until 1624 before it, too, was overcome by the elements. In tribute to the tremendous fortitude dis-

Meditation can help relax

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I have been going to meditation classes and would like your opinion as to how beneficial you think meditation is in helping to relieve headaches, tension, etc.

I feel rested and refreshed after meditation for about 15 minutes. My husband is a very tense and restless person, and he suffers from severe headaches. I wish he would try meditation and "let go" of some of his tensions.

DEAR READER—There are a number of unpleasant symptoms that people have which are related to tension. I am certainly in favor of whatever methods people learn to use that enables them to relax. Some people benefit from self-hypnosis, others might benefit from meditation as you have, if in the process they learn to be able to induce relaxation. Still others benefit from a short 10- to 15-minute nap.

One of the things that helps remove tension is a change in personal habits. This includes eliminating caffeine, which is a cerebral stimulant and has the opposite effect of tranquilizers.

The main sources of caffeine are coffee, tea and colas. Those who want more information about these beverages can send 50 cents for The Health Letter, number 1-1, Coffee, Tea, Cola, Cocoa. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Many individuals who ingest excessive amounts of caffeine throughout the day will find that they won't need to develop new methods for relaxation if they'll eliminate the caffeine.

DEAR DR. LAMB—We all know that venereal disease can destroy brain cells and even kill. I have heard that the correct diagnosis and treatment of these and other horrible diseases are dependent upon whether or not the patient is socially or politically cooperative. That is, I suspect that there is a conscious policy of the American Medical Assn. to control behavior by giving or withholding needed treatment and medication. Will you verify this? Will you even print this letter?

DEAR READER—I am printing it so many of our fellow citizens can see what kind of wild ideas are rampant in some segments of our society. As diversified and geographically widespread as the medical profession is, initiating and carrying out such a policy would be totally impossible.

Earlier in this century, before penicillin, one research study was carried out in a southern state where some individuals were not treated for syphilis. That study is the only such example of non treatment that I know of. A similar study was done in Oslo, Norway for the same reason—the scientific zeal of finding out how effective treatment was compared to not providing treatment. I certainly feel that this would be misguided today in the light of the available successful treatment for venereal disease.

Knowing how cantankerous and difficult some of my own colleagues are, and how they disagree so violently with each other, I am sure that there would be one real fight in trying to get very many doctors to agree on what was socially acceptable and what one had to do to be politically cooperative. I think you've got our country confused with some other countries of the world. We have our problems, but we still enjoy the greatest amount of freedom and, incidentally, the best medical service to the public of any people of the world.

Tribesman claims age of 138

By ROBIN ALP

BANDAR SERI BEGAWAN, Brunei (AP)—An Iban tribesman living in southern Brunei on Borneo Island claims he is 138 years old.

His recipe for longevity is a staple diet of rice, home-brewed liquor, plenty of cigarettes and a bath only once a week.

The Iban, who believes he was born in 1838, is known only as Yungkom. If he ever had any other names he has either lost interest in them or forgotten them.

A recent expedition by the Brunei Nature Society down the Ulu Belait River found him living a still healthy and happy life.

Wearing only a loose loincloth and bush hat, he still chops firewood every day to earn his board and lodging.

Yungkom said he was born near Kuching, capital of the neighboring Malaysian state of Sarawak, 138 years ago. His wizened shrunken frame tends to back up the claim.

Always a "heavy" smoker, he believes that a good spirit—or Ilmo in Malay—has helped him to survive so long.

He said he had always retained faith in his own gods and that they had always answered his prayers.

"When I was younger I used to bathe once a week in water mixed with special oils," said the tattooed tribesman. These days he says he only bathes once a week in ordinary water.

Yungkom said he used to be a salesman traveling on the rivers throughout Sarawak and Brunei selling everything from "clothes to odds and ends." He cannot remember exactly when he started his wandering career but if he was 20 it would have been in 1858.

He said he was so busy he never had time to get married and settle down. Only when he reached his "retiring age" of 88 did he move in with a rice growing family, in a house in undulating country near the Ulu Belait River. In return for food and shelter Yungkom descends the log ladder of the house every day to cut wood with his parang.

Yungkom remembers he was a "young man" of 45 when the island of Krakatoa, off Java, blew up in the mightiest volcanic explosion ever recorded.

He recalls flooding and havoc from the tidal wave that hit Borneo and was felt not only in Southeast Asia but much of the world.

His back is now permanently bent and his flesh wrinkled and shrunken but his eyes are bright and alert.

As he spoke to Azizah Williams, Secretary of the Brunei Nature Society who acted as interpreter, his memory sometimes played tricks on him. But at the age of 138 nobody would blame him for that.

dates and a candidate for committeewoman from the township — Lena M. Felker — are from Sikeston.

In Commerce Township, Linus "Bud" Huck is running for committeeman, but no woman filed for the position of committeewoman, which probably will be filled by write-in vote.

The other candidates for committeemen and committeewomen include: Kelso Township — Kenneth Rainey of Illmo and Connie Shuford of Chaffee; Morland Township — Kenneth G. Gibbar and Dorothy Voges of Benton; Morley Township — Jim Mac Emerson and Ava A. Emerson of Morley; Sylvania Township, Paul J. Crader of Oran and L. C. Streeter of rural Painton; Tywappity Township — Boyd Duff and Ethel Duff of Sikeston; and Sandywoods Township — Ben F. Marshall III and Betty Marshall of Blodgett.

According to Republican Party bylaws, a committeeman and a committeewoman should be named for each precinct in the county, but only one man and one woman are running for any of the 60 positions. Kielhofner said the others probably will remain unfilled as in the past.

Mary L. Doggett of Sikeston filed for committeewoman from Allen Precinct and Eugene N. Potashnick has filed as committeeman from Delmar Precinct in Sikeston.

The only withdrawal from a county race so far has been Gary Champion of Sikeston, who filed for prosecuting attorney on Oct. 21, 1975, and withdrew from the race on March 24.

Kielhofner pointed out that candidates still have time to withdraw their name from the ballot, since deadline for withdrawal is June 18. After that, all candidates who have filed will be placed on the ballot for the Aug. 3 primary election.

Heavy black smoke covered the scene as survivors scrambled from emergency exits.

The wreckage burned for nearly two hours. Firefighting efforts were hampered by a lack of water, and private water trucks responded to an emergency call.

The plane also brought down telephone and electrical lines, blacking out a third of Charlotte Amalie for several hours.

Pilots have complained for years that the airport's 4,650-foot main runway is too short.

"We have a very short runway," Fire Chief Rudolph Jennings said. Another fire department official said it is "extremely short and they know it is critically dangerous."

Federal Aviation Administrator John McLucas inspected the airport on April 13, and the Virgin Islands Ports Authority gave him a $50-million improvement proposal.

Kidnaping warrant is dropped

BLOOMFIELD — A felony kidnap warrant issued Monday for Jim Oxford, a Michigan man, was dropped today in what has been described as a "family squabble."

The warrant was issued by Stoddard County authorities after Oxford allegedly picked up two children at a babysitter's home in Dexter.

Oxford was reportedly with Janice Duley, the children's mother, who does not have custody of the children.

Stoddard County Sheriff Ralph Mouser said Michigan authorities has arrested Oxford prior to the dropping of the charge by authorities here.

The children had not been returned to Missouri as of this morning.

Democrats to retain stronghold

Few Republicans file for legislative seats

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Republican failure to file candidates for more than a third of the legislative seats will probably allow the Democrats to retain their stronghold on the Missouri General Assembly.

And after the deadline for filing for the August primary election passed Tuesday, 36 candidates for the House and three for the Senate were all but elected in the wake of no opposition from either party.

Two of them, Democrat B. W. Holt of Warrenton and Democrat John Scott of St. Louis, will begin first year terms in the House and Senate respectively without undergoing any campaign stress.

Democrats were assured of retaining at least 63 of the 163 seats in the House because no Republicans filed in those Districts. The Democrats now control 114 seats, five more than two-thirds.

Only half of the 34 Senate seats will be on the ballot this year, and the six districts in which Republicans have not filed any candidates added to the 14 Democratic incumbents not on the ballot will bring the Democratic total to 20, only three short of the two-thirds majority Democrats held in the upper chamber after the 1974 election.

On the other side of the ballot, there will only be 17 Republicans surviving the August primary for House seats who will face no Democratic opposition in November and only two in the Senate, neither of whom has any primary opposition either.

A total of 438 candidates, including two independents, filed for House seats this year and 51 for Senate seats. Two years ago, less than 400 persons filed for legislative races, the low participation blamed on reaction to the Watergate scandal.

The impact of the state's new campaign law had some effect on the 12 House members and six Senators who decided to retire from politics at the end of their present terms.

Several cited the stringent income source disclosure provisions of the law, which is undergoing its first major campaign-year test. Those retirements coupled with 17 House members and two senators seeking other elective posts have opened up most of the major leadership offices in both chambers as well as a number of committee chairmanships.

House Speaker Richard Rabbitt is seeking the lieutenant governor's office and Senate President Pro Tem William Cason is seeking the governorship, opening the two major legislative leadership posts for the next General Assembly.

Seen as prime candidates to succeed Rabbitt in 1977 are Majority Floor Leader Kenneth Rothman of Clayton, Speaker

Pro Tem Richard DeCoster of Canton and Marvin Proffer of Cape Girardeau.

With both Rothman and DeCoster in the speaker's race, the next two ranking leadership positions will also open up.

Reps. Gladys Marriott of Kansas City and Bob Griffin of Cameron are both mentioned as possibly succeeding DeCoster while Joe Holt of Fulton and Clarence Heflin of Independence are in the race for majority leader.

On the Senate side, Appropriations Chairman Norman Merrell of Monticello has announced plans to seek the pro tem spot while John Schneider of and Ray Howard, both of St. Louis, are vying to succeed Majority Leader Lawrence Lee, who is retiring.

At least seven committee chairmen in the House are either retiring or running for other offices and whoever gains the leadership posts is expected to cut back the number of committees from the present 35, a recommendation made by a special citizen's committee.

The failure of several committee chairmen to return in 1974 was used in the same way as committees after that election were cut from 41.

Kiwanians hear report on agricultural research

Sikeston Kiwanians heard Chuck Cromwell, superintendent of the University of Missouri Delta Center at Portageville, discuss the development of agricultural research Tuesday night at the El Capri Restaurant.

Cromwell's presentation to Kiwanis Club members featured a film, titled "Unfinished Miracles", which showed experiments being conducted on plant and animal life as well as in the area of pest control.

According to Cromwell, agriculture is America's most important industry, and scientific improvements have allowed U.S. farmers to produce twice as much today as they did 25 years ago.

Earl Hutchison reported on the club's work nights last week by saying that all work will be completed in time for the formal dedication scheduled May 14 for the George W. Kirk Memorial in the new recreation complex on North Ingram Street.

The governor of the Mo-Ark Kiwanis District will dedicate the park and will also be in Charleston to make his official visit and commemorate the 50th anniversary of the Charleston Club. Gov. Christopher Bond will not appear at these events, as incorrectly reported in Thursday's edition of The Daily Standard.

In other business, Bob Meyers, Bob Wright, Lee Shell and Don Agnew were appointed to the nominating committee for choosing next year's slate of officers.

Herb Moore was a guest at the meeting.

Woman remains unidentified

CHARLESTON — The body of a woman found April 24 in the Mississippi River in lower Mississippi County was buried Tuesday afternoon in Oak Grove Cemetery after authorities were unable to establish identity.

The body was found late Saturday afternoon by Sam Barker and George Miller of Rural East Prairie who were fishing in the river near the New Madrid County line. Due to inclement weather the body was secured and then removed

Sunday morning by Mississippi County authorities.

It had been reported that the body might be that of a Cairo, Ill. woman who had been reported missing. However, the woman was found earlier this week in Kentucky.

8 injured in 2 accidents

Eight persons were injured in two separate area traffic accidents Tuesday and early today, according to the state highway patrol.

Kathy Richardson, 25, of Annapolis was seriously injured at 7:15 p.m. Tuesday when the jeep she was driving went out of control on wet pavement and overturned on Highway 49 two miles north of Sabula in Iron County.

One passenger, William Lewis, 19, of Annapolis, was seriously injured and a second passenger, Randy Walton, 17, also of Annapolis, received minor injuries.

The three injury victims were taken to Arcadia Valley Hospital in Pilot Knob for treatment.

An accident at 12:30 a.m. today on Interstate Highway 55 ten miles north of Jackson resulted in injuries to five passengers in a northbound car driven by Willie Steele, 21, of Peoria, Ill. Seriously injured were Annie Ward, 38, of Chicago and Lucy Ward, 22, of Peoria. Three other passengers, Joseph Ward, 34, Marlin Ward, 3, and Traven Ward, 2, all of Peoria, received minor injuries.

Check charges filed against woman

CHARLESTON — A charge of issuing no account checks has been filed against Judy Turner, 25, of East Alton, Ill., and formerly of East Prairie who is being held in Mississippi County Jail under $2,500 bond.

Deputy Sheriff Robert Smith said the woman reportedly deposited $5 in Citizens Bank of Charleston April 16 and then wrote over $700 worth of checks throughout Mississippi County.

The charge filed is in connection with the issuance of a $175 check April 17 at Tru-Valu Foodliner in East Prairie, Smith said.

Mrs. Turner waived extradition and was returned to Mississippi County Tuesday.

Press issue voiced

KANSAS CITY — State Rep. James Baker, Democratic candidate for Missouri attorney general, has made public his views on the question of freedom of the press.

In a prepared statement released Monday, Baker said:

"In my opinion it is extremely important for all candidates to the legal office of attorney general in Missouri to make clear their stand on the serious question of freedom of the press. As attorney general, I would make it a point to present my views to the Legislature on potential state laws that could 'gag' the press.

"Freedom of expression is fundamental to American liberties. As Mrs. Justice Brandeis said, 'Those who won our independence...valued liberty both as an end and as a means. The greatest menace to freedom is an inert people. Public discussion is a political duty...and this should be a fundamental principle of...American government.'

"A free press unhampered by 'gag' laws, I submit, is fundamental in assuring there will be that public discussion. I believe, like Mr. Justice Goldberg, concurring in New York Times vs. Sullivan, that the First and 14th Amendments to the Constitution afford to the citizenry and the press very broad latitude to criticize official conduct despite the harm which may follow from occasional excesses or inadvertent errors.

SeMo U to erect bubble

CAPE GIRARDEAU — An air-supported structure, commonly referred to by the general public as a bubble, will be erected by the beginning of the fall semester on the Southeast Missouri State University campus, according to Dr. Robert Leestamper, president of the university, who said final details of the purchase of the bubble and related equipment from a Springfield ice skating rink have been worked out.

The two-year-old bubble, which is 124 feet wide, 231 feet long and 44 feet high at the center, is viewed as a temporary solution to Southeast Missouri State's longtime need for additional space for indoor recreational and sports activities.

The purchase price was not disclosed, but it was reported to be about one-third of the cost of a new air-supported structure plus the equipment included. Dr. Leestamper said that, in his opinion, the university bid was accepted because the ice rink's temporary use permit in Springfield had expired and the bubble had to be removed by May 1.

Exactly where the structure will be placed on the campus has not been determined. Various intramural and football practice fields are under consideration along with land which is now part of the university farm.

After the site is selected, a permanent foundation will be constructed at the location. The nature of the surface has not been decided upon, but it will be suitable for intramural and intercollegiate track meets, intramural and intercollegiate tennis matches and intramural basketball games, Dr. Leestamper said.

Acoustics inside the membrane structure are said to be excellent, and it is the thinking of university officials that the facility may be suitable for large "pop music" concerts for students. The marching band may also be able to utilize the building to practice football halftime shows when outside practices are prohibited by weather conditions.

The fabric, or skin shell, of the bubble is made of a durable vinyl-coated nylon fabric which is both waterproof and flame resistant. It is insurable against fire, storm damage, theft and vandalism.

The bubble, with its attached, criss-crossing cable harness system which anchors it to the foundation, is inflated by two 7½ horsepower blowers. Initial inflation will take about an hour. After that, the blowers will keep the shell in place. However, outside air will be constantly circulating in the building.

Both the harness system and the blowers were included in the transaction worked out between Southeast Missouri State and the Springfield organization. Also included was a standby emergency blower with all controls, which would automatically click on should the air pressure within the building drop below normal. This eliminates any possibility of the skin shell collapsing.

Also acquired in the purchase by Southeast Missouri State were 12 double light standards, 24 1,000-watt light fixtures and bulbs, one revolving "main entrance" door, one three-coil air heater and an emergency repair kit.

Although the air-supported structure will be a first for southeast Missouri, such facilities are now in use at many locations across the country. Dr. Leestamper said he personally inspected a number of them when he was president of Worcester, Mass., State College.

The president also noted that, while the structure is viewed as a temporary solution to the university's indoor sports and recreational needs, such bubbles are conservatively estimated to last six or seven years. And when the time comes, they can be restored to a "like new" condition for less than half of their original cost.

Southeast Missouri State, according to the president, will continue to explore ways to construct a large, permanent physical education and recreational facility for the campus.

SeMo State plans annual spring concert

CAPE GIRARDEAU — The Southeast Missouri State University choir will sing a variety of sacred and secular numbers at its annual spring concert at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Academic Hall auditorium.

Following a brief tour by the choir of Kentucky and Tennessee, the concert "will conclude a busy year of choral activities at the university," according to Dr. Doyle Dumas, head of the music department and director of the university choir.

Choir members are chosen by audition, and this year's choir consists of 43 singers, including

McPheeters will attend West Point

CARLISLE, Pa. — Scott McPheeters, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. McPheeters of Charleston, Mo., has received an appointment to the Class of 1980 at the United States Military Academy at West Point, N.Y.

McPheeters is the son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. L. B. McPheeters Jr. Col. McPheeters is a student at the U.S. Army War College in Carlisle.

While attending Carlisle Area High School, young McPheeters has been active in school functions. He is a member of the Carlisle football team, track team, Key Club and is a reader for the Bible Club.

In addition to his appointment to the Military Academy, he was also notified last week that he had been accepted for a four-year ROTC scholarship for his scholastic abilities.

McPheeters will report to West Point in July to join his classmates at the academy. He was one of 11,956 applicants for the Class of '80, the highest number of applicants in the history of West Point.

16 seniors. Their final concert will include works by Bach, Purcell, Poulenc and Brahms, as well as works by American composers, Dr. Dumas said.

The 14-number program will also feature soloists from various sections of the choir, the music professor said.

Open to the public, the concert is free.

'Art in the Park' is scheduled

CAPE GIRARDEAU — The ninth annual Art in the Park exhibit, sponsored by the Creative Arts Guild of Cape Girardeau, will be held May 15 and 16. As in past years, the exhibition will again be in Common Pleas Courthouse Park.

Art work of all kinds will be displayed from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. May 15 and from noon to 5 p.m. May 16. The second annual art auction, scheduled to begin at 2 p.m. May 16, will feature items donated by exhibitors as well as major area professional artists. Proceeds from the auction will provide funds for a Southeast Missouri State University art scholarship and aid to children taking the summer classes sponsored by the art guild.

Information and entry forms have been sent to exhibitors in previous shows, but other interested artists and craftsmen may contact Miss Marjorie A. Suedekum, 410 Themis, Cape Girardeau, Mo. 63701. Deadline for entries is May 11.

Each exhibitor will be required to furnish his own display racks or tables and chairs. No entry fee is charged, no prizes are awarded and there is no commission on sales. Each artist will be responsible for his own work and handle any sales on his own.

More than 70 artists and craftsmen from three states brought work to the 1975 exhibition, and similar participation is expected this year.

In case of rain, the exhibition will be held the following weekend.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The end of a five-day suspension for Lynn McGlothen and John D'Acquisto's first start in nearly a year met with contrasting results in Tuesday night's San Francisco Giants-St. Louis Cardinals baseball game.

McGlothen, who was fined $300 and suspended for his part in last week's beanball brawl with the New York Mets, shook off the effects of that experience by scattering 10 hits in a 7-1 complete-game victory over the Giants.

D'Acquisto, out most of 1975 following surgery on his right elbow, was chased in a four-run second-inning rally after allowing two hits, a pair of sacrifice flies and five walks.

"I was up a little more than usual for this one," admitted McGlothen. "I certainly didn't want to look bad after what happened last week. I thought about that and I really wanted to do well.

"But I couldn't get loose at first," said McGlothen, 2-2, who yielded a lead-off triple to Von Joshua and a scoring single to Derrel Thomas in the first before blanking the Giants the rest of the way.

"The cold weather kept me tight and it didn't help when we were up so long in the second," he added. "But I can sympathize with D'Acquisto. It took me four years to get to the majors because of wildness."

Reggie Smith's walk, Willie Crawford's double and Keith Hernandez' single produced a 1-1 tie and Crawford scored the go-ahead run on Hector Cruz' sacrifice fly. D'Acquisto then walked four of the next five batters.

Jr. High teams fare well

JACKSON — The Sikeston eighth graders won their competition and their freshman counterparts finished a respectable third in Tuesday night's quadrangle junior high track meet here.

Sikeston had two men place in eight of the 14 events in the eight grade meet. Sales won the high jump with a mark of five feet even and placed in two other events. Tope, Robinson and Murphy each placed in two events.

Other Sikeston winners besides Sales were: Duncan, with a time of 60.3 seconds in the 440, the Sikeston 880-relay team with a mark of 1:45.8, the Sikeston mile relay team with a mark of 4:05 and G. Lasater in the shot put with a heave of 40'5".

Freshman winners for Sikeston included: Atkinson with a 10.3 second time in the 70-yard high hurdles and a 14.6 second time in the 120-yard low hurdles, the Sikeston relay team with a mark of 1:41.2 in the 880 and Nelson, who heaved the discus 97'11".

The eighth-graders won by 23 points, 72 to 49 by second place Charleston. Cape Central won the ninth grade match-up with 77½ points. Charleston was second with 65 and Sikeston had 54.

Lilbourn righthander Jimmie Reed grimaces as he delivers a pitch during Tuesday afternoon's game at Bernie. Reed went ten innings against the Mules before being relieved by Sam Taylor in the eleventh, then drove in the winning run in the twelfth as the Panthers won 2-1. (Daily Standard Photo)

Reed helps Panthers win pitching duel over Bernie in twelve

BERNIE — Senior Jimmie Reed labored ten long innings on the mound for the Lilbourn Panthers Tuesday afternoon, but his most significant contributions to the game came not on the hill, but at the plate.

Reed, who was relieved by star hurler Sam Taylor after throwing the maximum ten frames, drilled a single in the top of the twelfth to break up a 1-1 deadlock and lift the Lilbourn Panthers to a 2-1 victory over the Bernie Mules at Bernie. The loss was only the third of the season for the Mules, who along with Lilbourn will be the favorites in the upcoming Class A District Eleven Tournament.

Coaches Ted Mauk of Lilbourn and Jack McGowan of Bernie both elected to go with their number two pitchers in this event, not wanting to give their opponent a look at their best pitchers, who are in this case Bob Carson of the Mules and Sam Taylor of the Panthers. But before the marathon was over, both coaches had to go to their aces for hurling help.

Reed duelled with Bernie lefthander Randy Walker for ten innings before both hurlers were forced off the mound by the rule book, which states that a pitcher can throw a maximum of ten innings in three days. Maybe it was fitting that neither man was involved in the decision, since neither deserved to lose.

Bernie got to the Lilbourn righthander for a run in the bottom of the second inning. Bob Carson, who plays first base for the Mules when not pitching, started things off with a single and was sacrificed to second. Following an infield out, Kent Pointer came through with an RBI basehit to make it 1-0.

With Bernie's sophomore lefthander Carson showing the maturity of a more experienced hurler, it looked as if the one run might stand up for a Bernie victory. Carson gave up only four hits during his ten-inning stint and didn't walk a batter while fanning ten. But two of those four hits came in the seventh as the Panthers rallied to tie it.

Sam Taylor and Bobby Reno singled to give the Panthers a first and third situation with one out. Hurler Reed's perfect squeeze bunt tied the score at 1-1 and helped himself avoid getting the loss. Bernie threatened to score in the bottom of the inning and win the game, but a baserunning mixup kept them off the scoreboard.

Both Bob Carson and Sam Taylor took over on the mound in the eleventh, which was the fourth scoreless inning in a row. But the Panthers finally broke through against Carson in the twelfth, with Reed's single bringing home what turned out to be the winning run.

Oran stops Jays

CHARLESTON — The Charleston Bluejays were all over the basepaths Tuesday afternoon, but could manage only four runs as they lost only their third game of the season, a 7-4 conference decision to the Oran Eagles. The Bluejay record in the Scott-Mississippi League stands at 7-3.

Oran hurler Keith Campbell struggled throughout the contest, but managed to go the distance to record the win. Campbell gave up eleven walks, which combined with nine Charleston hits gave the Jays plenty of scoring opportunities. But the Bluejays lost a total of five men on the bases, including two men throw out at the plate and two more gunned down trying to steal.

Charleston starter Jerry Nail was the victim of shoddy fielding in the first inning as Oran took a 2-0 lead. The Jays made five of their six errors in the opening frame, enabling the Eagles to score twice with the benefit of a hit.

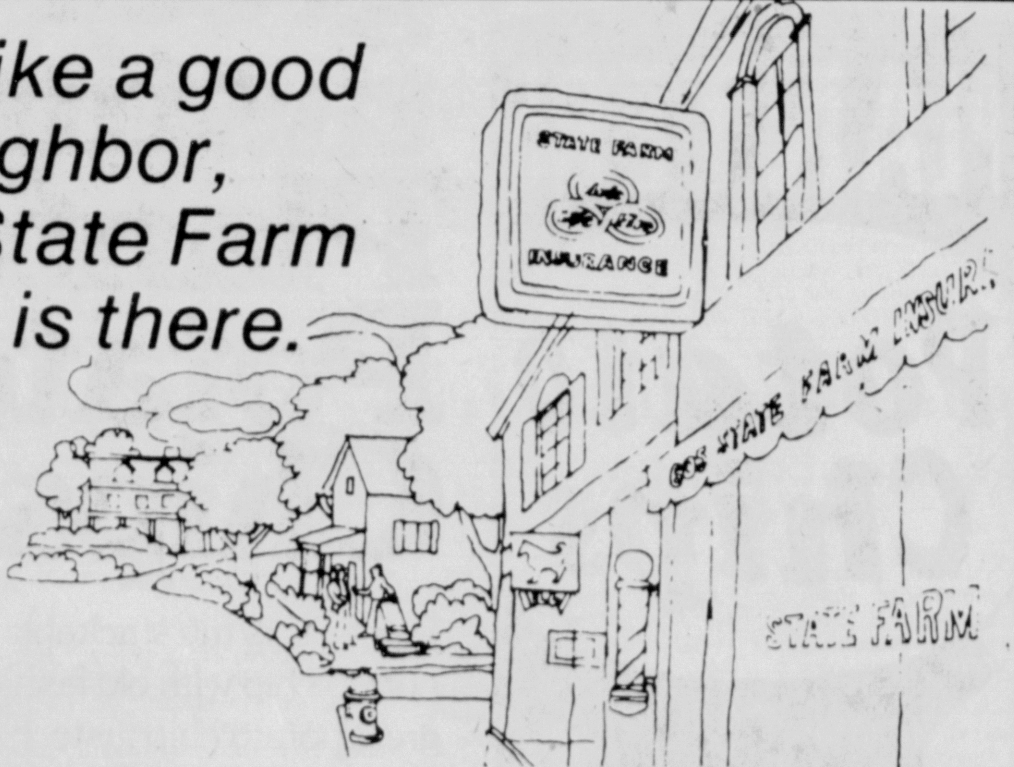

Charleston came back to make it 2-1 in the fourth, but Campbell helped himself with a

Gaither Daugherty fired a 38 for Sikeston for the Dave Clements of Perryville for

Chaffee avoids upset by Eagles

EAST PRAIRIE — The East Prairie Eagles made a gallant bid to upset the favored Chaffee Red Devils but fell short 5-3 here Tuesday afternoon.

Randy Newcomer was the winning pitcher, striking out 10 batters and walking five while Terry Wheatley took the loss. Wheatley fanned four and walked nine.

Chaffee threatened to score in the top of the first with two hits but Wheatley retired the side without any damage. The Red Devils came back in the top of the second to take a 2-0 lead. Jay McGuire led off the inning with a double and Lindy Duncan singled him home and Stubbs singled Duncan across the plate. The Eagles got to Newcomer in the bottom of the inning with a walk, single and double by Billy McCutchen to tie the game.

Wheatley held Chaffee scoreless in the top of the third and Carl Moore doubled home a run to give the Eagles a 3-2 lead after three innings.

The hard hitting Red Devils wouldn't stay down though as a walk and a single by Newcomer followed by a double by Lindy Duncan tied the score.

East Prairie was through scoring for the day after the third inning but Chaffee took a 4-3 lead in the top of the sixth inning. Two walks and two singles produced the winning run. The Red Devils added an insurance run in the seventh inning as Jay McGuire singled for the RBI.

Wheatley was the games leading hitter with three for three.

Holcomb nips Senath 5-4

SENATH — The Holcomb Hornets edged the SHHS Lions 5-4 here Tuesday afternoon. The win came after a loss to North Pemiscot Monday afternoon in the District 10 tournament.

Mike Young relieved starter Mike Scott in the fifth inning and picked up the victory. Eddie Lewis hurled all seven innings for Senath and suffered the loss.

Senath jumped on Scott in the bottom of the first inning for three runs as three doubles and a single accounted for the scoring. Holcomb came right back in the top of the second inning to tie the score as Scott Ivy led off the inning with a three bagger and after a single and two walks Mike Scott singled home two runs.

Young gave up the go ahead run in the bottom of the third on a walk with the bases loaded.

Holcomb scored the winning run in the top of the fifth frame as Ivy socked his second triple of the game to knock in the tying run and Luther smacked a single to score the winning marker.

Holcomb ran their season record to 6-3. Mike Scott pitched a one hitter over Risco in an earlier game which the Hornets won 8-2.

Lehr to speak Thursday at Law Day observance

CAPE GIRARDEAU — The 39-year-old state auditor of Missouri, George Lehr, who is generally regarded as one of the rising stars in the state's Democratic Party, will speak Thursday at the annual Law Day observance on the Southeast Missouri State University campus.

The program will begin at 11 a.m. in Rose Theatre of Grauel Language Arts Building. Sponsored jointly by the university and the Cape Girardeau County Bar Association, it is free and open to the public.

Following the hour-long program, Lehr will attend a small luncheon in his honor at the University Center.

Born in Kirksville, Lehr was elected auditor in 1974 in his first bid for statewide office. A graduate of the University of Iowa, he is the first certified public accountant to hold the Missouri auditor's post.

Lehr, whose first job after college was with a Kansas City accounting firm, made his first bid for elective office after serving three years as the appointed auditor of Jackson County, which includes Kansas City. He was elected Jackson

George Lehr

County collector in 1966, and in 1970, the voters named him presiding judge of the Jackson County Court.

Jackson County voters in 1970 also approved a home rule charter form of government which called for the County Court to be replaced by a county executive and a 15-member county legislature. The plan was implemented in 1973 and Lehr became the first county executive, responsible for the overall administration of the county's government.

During his first year as state auditor, Lehr produced a record number of audits of third and fourth-class counties. He also produced several major statewide reports, including an operations review of the Missouri Public Service Commission and a study of statewide property assessment equity.

Lehr has served as a member of numerous civic and governmental organizations. A former vice chairman of the National Association of Counties, he is an honorary director of Rockhurst College in Kansas City and a member of the President's Advisory Council of St. Mary's College in Leavenworth, Kan.

He has received the Kansas City Jaycees' Distinguished Service Award, among others.

Lehr's wife of 19 years is the former Barbara Higgins, also a Kirksville native. The couple has three children, Lisa 17, George Jr., 16, and Teresa, 12.

The topic of the auditor's address at Southeast Missouri State has not been announced.

Little Miss

Julie Bremer, left, five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Bremer, was named Little Miss Dexter Monday night at the Little Royalties of Dexter Pageant sponsored by the Stoddard County Soroptimist Club. Lisa Lovins, center, five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Lovins was first runner up and second runner up was Tammy Harty, four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Danny Harty.

and Little Mister

Bradley Fulk, left, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Fulk doesn't seem too happy at being named first runner up in the Little Mister Dexter contest, held Monday night. Standing beside him is second runner up, Anthony Shanks, five-year-old son of Mrs. Connie Shanks and John Shanks. David Burnett, seated, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. David Burnett was named Little Mister Dexter.

Local student is honored during UMC Law Day

COLUMBIA — Thirteen law students were recognized for high scholarship at University of Missouri-Columbia Saturday at the conclusion of Law Day activities.

Elected to the Order of the Coif, legal scholastic society, were John Stephen Pletz and Roger Michael Baron, Jefferson City; Gary R. Long, Sikeston; Ralph John Robertson Jr., Humansville; David L. Baylard, St. Louis; Maurice Michael Gill, William W. Erwin, Harold William Hinderer III and Amy Rehm Hinderer, Columbia;

Gary R. Cunningham, Las Vegas, Nev.; Mark Eugene Johnson and Steven Carl Krueger, Kansas City, and Michael Edward Kaemmerer, St. Charles.

The honorary initiate of the society was Cullen Coil of Jefferson City, UMC graduate and former commissioner of the Missouri Supreme Court.

Other Law Day activities included finals in junior case club competition in which all junior law students competed. Joseph M. Lehman of Glendale and John T. Kay of California, attorneys for the appellant, defeated Kristie L. Kell and Bernard A. Garner, both of Columbia, as attorneys for respondent. Kay received the Roscoe Anderson award as the best individual in the contest.

The case was held before a "moot" appellate court composed of Norwin D. Houser, Missouri Supreme Court commissioner; Judge Elmo B. Hunter, U.S. District Court, Kansas City, and Judge Marshall Craig, 33rd Judicial Circuit, Sikeston.

Administrators and technical personnel from 200 private and public hospitals have been invited to attend, according to Wes Fisher, Missouri Energy Agency program director. The Missouri Society for Hospital Engineers also has scheduled a spring meeting to coincide with the seminar, he added.

Economic benefits and cost-cutting techniques through energy management will be presented by John Flynn of St. Louis. William H. Smith, FEA Region 7 acting director, will discuss engineering management. James L. Wilson, DNR director, will present an overview of the energy issue.

The seminar also will feature detailed presentations on energy management by representatives from engineering consultant firms Ross & Baruzzini, William Tao & Associates and Charles McClure & Associates, all of St. Louis. They will discuss energy auditing, adjustments in heating, ventilation and air conditioning equipment, lighting and equipment control methods, electrical load control methods and computer control systems.

Trustee's elect new officers

POPULAR BLUFF — The Board of Trustees of Three Rivers Community College District certified election results and elected officers at their meeting April 21.

Richard Brumitt of Doniphan, who was re-elected to the board, and Joe Knodell of Ellinsore took the oath of office as newly elected trustees, and all officers of the board were re-elected to their positions. Officers are: William Becker of Williamsville, president; Dr. E.T. Hansbrough of Poplar Bluff, vice president; Richard Brumitt, secretary; and Mrs. Marianna Wolpers of Poplar Bluff, treasurer.

In other action, trustees approved the release from contract of Shirley Rudd and Carol Roberts. The following were employed as replacement personnel: Arla Ward, secretary-receptionist for the Student Services Center; and Irene Winston, accounting clerk.

Also, Mrs. Ramona Colson was employed as an instructor in communications and effective speaking. She will begin teaching in the fall and will replace Miss Virginia Meredith, who is retiring.

Energy management study for Missouri hospitals scheduled

JEFFERSON CITY — The first statewide seminar on energy management for Missouri hospitals will be Thursday at the Ramada Inn.

It will be sponsored by the
